TRIBAL ADMINISTRATION

To Whom it may Concern:

The Chitimacha Tribe of Louisiana has recently completed a 102-room hotel facility connecting to our existing gaming areas at Cypress Bayou Casino. We engaged the R.O.I. Hotel Development Group for this important expansion. Our project and product has exceeded our expectations. The R.O.I. Team included Wright Hotel Development and CVC Hospitality.

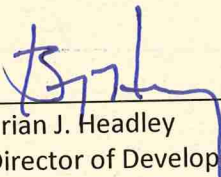

We have completed several gaming facility expansions throughout the 20 years of successful gaming operations and have organized and managed the teams to achieve the desired product; however, the selection of the R.O.I. team was instrumental in completion of our lodging venue. R.O.I. had an instrumental understanding of our established gaming operations as well as the critical physical and system interfaces of the lodging venue and casino operations. Their commitment to preserving our project scope as well as maintaining our stringent requirement of not exceeding our established budget; provided a measure of confidence for our governing Council and the membership.

During the early stages of the project planning, we solicited competitive RFP's from numerous national development firms specializing in hotel developments within an established gaming environment. After an extensive evaluation of all proposals, R.O.I. was selected to be our partner for this project. The proposal R.O.I. submitted consisted of intensive planning, data compilation, analysis, operations function and staffing, facility design, bidding, construction and construction management.

As in most development projects, design or operational issues arise, clarification is needed or re-evaluation is warranted. The R.O.I. Team excelled at managing these areas. Their highly qualified and attentive team answered our questions and reassured the Tribal leaders at every juncture. Most importantly, they diligently found the correct answers and implemented the correct solutions, and maintained our project scope and budget. Their understanding of the interface between a gaming operation and a lodging venue, proved beneficial numerous times through the development process.

As our project has come to an end and operations of the new lodging venue get underway, I will certainly contact the R.O.I. Team for future expansions to the hotel. Their product, process and professionalism were exceptional. If you have any questions, please contact me at (337) 923-4000.

Sincerely,

Brian J. Headley
